End Of Soviet Treaties Foreseen

Anglo-Soviet and Franco-Soviet treaties will soon be dead pacts.

They were commenting on the new Soviet memorandum denouncing the Atlantic Alliance. When the Soviet Foreign Ministry first denounced the Atlantic Alliance early this year, many diplomats took the view that the two 20-year treaties were in jeopardy.

The official spokesmen, on their part, pointed to Hongkong's public debt which

Security is a permanent necessity for Hongkong, and to suggest that expenditure for it is unusual and non-recurrent places it in a false position. There may be a thin dividing line between capital expenditure to be financed from revenue and from loan, but these should be capable of distinction. It is all the more important if meeting capital costs from revenue means loss of essential social services. This is the big weakness of the official reply to criticism on the point. It should be possible from a budget of almost $180 million to introduce and sustain more social services than the Colony now enjoys. Instead, the 1949-50

programme provides for no important development in this direction. Relatively speaking, social services are going to be worse off this financial year than last,

and, as it has been demonstrated, the great bulk of the budget is being devoured either by non-productive departments or is being absorbed by undertakings the cost of which should be sprend over several years. Some of the Unofficials have made a strong point about this, and the Financial Secretary has offered a plausible reply. But on balance the critics still appear to have the most appealing case and we hope that they will continue to impress upon

Government the need, not only for revising this method of utilising current revenue, but also the desirability of establishing a budgetting system that Boston, Apr. 1.--Mr 24. Harold Stassen today proposed a US$1,000,000,000 per year "MacArthur Plan" to bolster Southern China's resistance and to fight Communism throughout Asia.

Woman Shot: Body Dissolved In A Drum Of Acid

Horsham, Apr. 1.—The prosecution alleged today that John George Haigh admitted shooting a wealthy widow and dissolving her body in acid.

The prosecutor, Mr E. G. Robey, was opening the Crown's case against Haigh, a 39-year-old business executive who is accused of the murder on February 18 of Mrs Olive Durand-Deacon, aged 69.

Mr Robey said Haigh made two statements to the police. In one of them Haigh said: "Mrs Durand-Deacon no longer exists. She has disappeared completely and no trace of her will ever be found. How can you prove murder if there is no body?"

TOW ironic—and how typical. All around there is bad II news about films and the crisis in which they find themselves through nobody's fault but their own. And at this moment there are five new films in the West End of London and they are all good. Two of them are British. One is practically a model of the kind of modest, cheerful, competent entertainment which might be the backbone of a successful industry. That is "All Over the The other has the virtue of being different. Frank Launder went off to the South Sens (no more expensive than working at Denham or Pinewood) and brought back some lovely, escapist Technicolour in "The Blue Lagoon."

New stars are born

NIOW take the personal side. A film industry is only as good IN as the creative people in it. "All Over the Town" has a director, Derek Twist, and the producer is Ian Dalrympie, who started only recently with the intelligent and promising "Woman in the Hall."

And it has two new stars, shrewdly chosen and admirably given their heads. Sarah Churchill has starred in Italian films, but not here until now. She is not merely good-looking and possessed of a beautiful voice, but she has a solid (no reflection on her excellent figure) quality of being completely real and bellevable. Norman Wooland has that third dimension, too. As Horatio in "Hamlet" he was a discovery. Promptly he was thrown nway on a piece of rubbish. Now fortunately, he is rescued and offers thanks with a performance that for naturalness and likeability reminds me of the debutant Donat.

Jean is an asset

She is developing benulifully, and there, is that about her, hard to define but unequivoenl, that suggests she is going to be one of the really big international screen names before she is 25. Unless, of course, somebody fumbles her career. May she be blessed with good guidance.

The ballet is booming

TIP in the top half-dozen money-making films in America now U is the British ballet pleture, "The Red Shoes." In London, Covent Garden's calendar of ballets has "Sold out" printed across half the items. Roland Pelit, the young French dancer, has just had a highly successful West End season with his company. Danilova, rapturously received on her return to London, contracts to appear at the Empress Hall at Whitsun, and the chances are she will outdo the 7,000-n-night audiences who recently went to see Markova there.

Ballet, in flesh or film, native or foreign, is the most booming form of entertainment. Watching these phenomena, troglodytes of the film world may yet be persuaded to desort those three weird sisters of box-omee tradition-sex, sentiment, and

The gamut of shades run from soft creams to green, from ivory to mauve, with many fine nuances of the ever popular rachelle and flesh tints.

While it is difficult to classify types of skins, there are simple rules that, fit the cases fairly well. For instance, the true blonde is advised to use a creamy powder with geranium lipstick. If rouge she must use, it must naturally harmonise with the colour used on the mouth. For eye shading she can use blue of the faintest tone. Many specialists say that when shadows are used, the synthetic blush should be omitted. Too much colour and the face becomes lithographic.

THE BRUNETTE

THE brown-haired, browneyed brunette will find a deep rachelle with the slightest suggestion of flesh flattering. The Letin type brunette must have an othre powder. She is the one type that can use a vivid lipstick to advantage.

Mauve pewder has wonderful possibilities for the white haired woman; it gives the older skin an appearance of delicate transparency. Some blondes use this shade, touching the cyclids with the rouge pad, tinting the lips with an orange red pencil.

Green powder tones down the florid complexion. It is not as terrible as it sounds.

Unfinished Furniture A Good Buy

By ELEANOR ROSS

COME of the nicest furnishing D jobs we have admired have not necessarily been the most elaborate, nor the most expensive. Nice pieces, well chosen, well integrated, a good sense of colour, a lived-in look—these are the ingredients that go to make up a good

Beautiful lacquer pleces are all very well, but wise young people go all out for unfinished furniture, 'well-made, of good lines and good wood. Then they go to work and give the pieces a beautiful deep rich stain or a glowing coat of lacquer. We've been watching some friends of ours doing a marvellous job on unpainted pleces, and we've learned a few tricks that we would like to pass on to you.

An effective way to treat unfinished wood furniture is to give it a special finish that brings out all the beauty of the grain. This is accomplished by dipping a clean cloth in glycerine and rubbing the wood until as much as possible & absorbed. Next, go over the surfaces with linseed oil and remove the excess with a clean cloth. Finally, wax and polish.

Rich Glow

The result, as we have seen, is a soft, mellow finish—a rich, warm glow that is the distinguishing feature of old maple. Honestly, the pieces we saw looked as though they had been lovingly polished for

Our friends dld a good job too, on some antique pieces, refinishing them and making them really beautiful as well as useful. First they applied paint remover, followed by applications of vinegar and water, then a clear water rinse. Then followed a good sandpapering until every vestige of paint had disappeared; then came a rubbing with fine steel wool. Then they went over the entire sur-face with a glycerine-dipped cloth. The furniture is now rently for stain, lacquer or linseed oil finish.

We noticed that most of the gingerbread, the over-ornamentation had been removed from the old pieces, leaving beautiflowing lines that fitted perfectly into a modern room

HOUSEHOLD HINT

A diluted solution of genatin is good for restoring the crisp, new appearance to fine fabrics, such as organdle, voiles, silks, etc. Don't use too much, or the fabric will feel sticky. Add one pint of cold water to an ounce of gelatin, and heat until it is dissolved. Dilute with hot water according to the stiffness dosired. You can use from eight-to 15 parts of hot water to one part of gelatin solution. Addin little borax to preserve the stock solution for later use.

Start off with the meringue for this one. For two servings, beat two egg whites until stiff but not dry. 14 c. sugar gradually, beating constantly. Roll three graham crackers to make fine crumbs: fold into meringue. Then prepare a "base" spreading two graham crackers with jam or jelly and topping with two more graham crackers. Place "sandwiches" together on baking sheet. When ready for dessert, heap vanilla ice cream frozen very hard, in centre of top of cracker sandwiches, keeping the ice cream

Living room, dining area, kitchen and front door entry of the house (top picture) make up four sides of a square, with fireplace in the centre. The view, taken from the living room, looks towards the dining area, walled almost completely by windows and the door to the sun deck. On the outside, the house is trim and neat and streamlinedlooking. The front door leads into the entry forming one side of the square which is the street level floor, with living room on its right, and kitchen on the left.

Since the average family spends most of its waking Hours in living and service areas of the house, a floor plan like this simplifies housekeeping.

The staircase coming down from the centre of the main floor gives onto a hallway on the lower flevel; accessible to either of the two bedrooms.

Inter-Hong League Starts Tomorrow

All the three League championships having been decided, the Inter-Hong League gets under way tomorrow when at 10.30 a.m. on the Recreio football ground, King's Park, Gibb Livingston meet Standard Vacuum Oil. The competition is revived for the first time since the reoccupation.

Compared to pre-war days, the entries are not as many. But six teams have entered which makes the league interesting enough. The four other squads are American President Lines, Musicians Union, the Asiatic Petroleum Co. and the Texas Oil Company.

THE ABOUT

How much does the average soccer fan know about football. Can he tell a good centre-half with constructive ideas from the pure "stopper" whose whole aim in life seems to be to kick the ball as hard and far up the field as possible? Does he really appreciate the finer points of the game—the constructive pass back to the goal-keeper for instance or the quick inter-change of position by forwards. And does he know when to give a man credit for running into the correct position to receive a pass even though the final shot at goal may be wide?

By PETER DITTON

I say in the majority of all these cases the answer is NO. The average soccer fan does not appreciate the finer points of the game. He pays his money and he goes to see goals scored. And in many cases if those goals are not scored by his own side he comes away convinced that he has seen a poor game. The opposing side may have played beautiful football to gain their reward but the fan who goes to see one team will never agree that that reward was due. And there are many fans who go to see only one team.

Harmony Is mportant For Us All

TANT USICIANS know that to LVL produce harmony each note must add something to the composition and must contribute just the right sound to complement and perfect all the other notes. Whether you are a composer someone who enjoys listening, you know that it is harmony that makes music so beautiful, inspiring and enjoyable.

Harmony in everyday living is as important, beautiful, and uplifting as in music, and it takes hard work to produce it. Each one of us must add something helpful, something kind and friendly, to the person on elther side of us, whether at home, at school, or at work. We must each contribute just the right bit of love, knowledge, understanding, technical skill, or whatever is needed, to produce harmony in our own lives and environment, and in the lives of those we contact.

And like the inspiring compositions of the masters, or the heart-warming, toe-tickling tunes of our popular songs, the things we think and say, and do, can and will add inspiraand friendliness and happiness

. MCKENNEY ON BRIDGE

'Makes Early Start To Set Up Squeeze

BY WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY

MODAY'S Columbus, O., hand 1 comes from Mrs Helen Smith, who is very active in bridge affairs in Columbus, She !! is the mother of four children, three sons and a daughter. Two of the boys are in college. Ed, the second oldest, won himself a scholarship at Harvard University.

Mrs Smith is kept pretty directing games and teaching bridge. She does not get a chance to play in tournaments very often, but when she does, she gives a good account of herself.

In today's ltand she executed a nice squeeze play to make her contract. The opening lead of the four of hearts was won by Mrs Smlth (South) with the queen. Next she led a small diamond to dummy's acc. Deciding to prepare for the squeeze, she led back the four of clubs. When East played the deuce, Mrs Smith played the six-spot, letting West win the trick with the nine.

West continued with another heart, which Mrs Smith won with the king. She then proceeded to cash the third heart trick and the ace and king of spades. Then she ran off the diamonds, getting down to the jack of spades and the ace-eight of clubs in her own hand. Dummy was down to the kinggeven-five of clubs.

East, with the queen-jack. three of clubs and the queen of spades, had to make a discard. If he let go the queen of spades, Mrs Smith's jack would be good. Hoping that his partner and something in clubs, East discarded the club three. Mrs Smith then cashed the ace of clubs and the last two tricks were won in dummy with the lang-and-seven-spot.

TSUI BROTHERS WIN OPEN DOUBLES

By "RECORDER"

The Tsui brothers retained the Colony Open Grasscourt Doubles Championship t the HKCC yesterday when they defeated Ip Koonhung, the Colony Singles Champion, and Lee Wai-tong by a score of 1-6, 6-4, 6-4, 6-1.

Ip & Lee took 17 minutes to win the first set with the loss of only one game. The rest of the match went very much the Tsuis' way as they gradually began to settle down and demonstrated to the large gallery that they are unquestionably still the finest doubles combination in the Colony.

In the third game of the third set, Ip Koon-hung, mistiming his footing in a hard drive, had the misfortune to sprain his ankle slightly. This factor contributed to the Tsuis having a fairly easy time of the last two sets but they were, obviously, still the superior combination.

Victorious MCC Team Back From S. Africa

London, Apr. 1.-A big crowd welcomed the MCC team at Waterloo Station here today on their return from their victorious South African tour. F. G. Mann, the captain, said: "We have had a really wonderful tour. There was very little between the two Test sides. Our bailing was on the whole more consistent. Our bowling was steadler than theirs and this, combined with our fielding, swayed the balance in our favour.

"Apart from this, I think that such success as was achieved in the results and the way in which the games were played was very largely due to the fact that the side was such a very happy one."

Mann added that he would be unable to play much more first-class cricket after the end of the present English season as he would have to go back to business "and do some work,"-Reuter.
